How did the Coronavirus affect your lifestyle since the beginning?

In the beginning, it was tough to get used to new circumstances. As time passed, I tried to create new habits. I have started to learn new languages, audit for new courses, and care more about myself. Before Coronavirus has spread, I have been living in a dormitory. Several things affect my performance, including the vast population in the dorm, the time was thrown away for cooking, washing, shopping, etc. I used these spent times to develop my skills and strengths.

I have used to be more sensitive to being clean, and it is like an obsession. I also got away from my friends and colleagues.

In conclusion, I was sorrowful about this event in the first place, but I used this opportunity to make a better me.
